HARDING AND COOLIDGE SWORN IN AS NATION'S RULERS

BIBLE WASHINGTON MADE USE OF PLAYS PART IN INAUGURAL

A BRIGHT SUN BEAMS ON THE ASSEMBLED THRONG

Oath Administered at 1:18 O'clock on Capitol Plaza by Chief Justice White; Vice-President-elect Sworn in Hour Earlier; Goes Immediately After Address to White House.

By Associated Press

WASHINGTON March [illegible]—Warren G Harding of Ohio and Calvin Coolidge of Massachusetts were inaugurated today President and Vice President of the United States.

Mr Harding took the oath at 1 18 P M and Mr Coolidge at 12 [illegible]

Immediately at the conclusion of the inaugural address the small party re-formed and took motor cars back to the White House escorted by the cavalry.

Pressing his lips to an historic Bible used at the inauguration of George Washington the new President took the oath administered by Chief Justice White. He had chosen the eighth verse from the sixth chapter of Micah saying

"What doth the Lord require of thee but to do justly and to love mercy and to walk humbly with thy God

Immediately after the administration of the oath Mr Harding turned to the vast crowd which stretched across the Capitol plaza and began the delivery of his inaugural address.

Sound amplifiers carried his voice to the outskirts. A chill wind feebly warmed by a bright sun swept the broad space which appeared strangely in contrast with other years when it had been illuminated by the uniforms of West Point cadets midshipmen from Annapolis and troops.

Pledging his faith anew to American institutions President Harding reiterated a plea for a return to normalcy for industrial peace for friendship with the world and spoke again a promise to work for an association of nations to bring about peace and "approximate disarmament

America he said can enter into no political commitments nor assume any economic obligations which will subject our decisions to any other than our own authority

[illegible] our people will not misunderstand nor will the world misconstrue said the new President. We have no thought to impede the paths to closer relationship. We wish to promote understanding. We want to do our part to make offensive warfare so hateful that governments and peoples who resort to it must prove the righteousness of their cause or stand as outlaws before the bar of civilization

Warren Gamaliel Harding was inaugurated President with ceremonies as simple as those the historians have described in chronicling the induction into office of George Washington more than a century ago

Had Mr Harding's personal wishes been adhered to strictly the ceremonies would have been even more simple but the Congressional inaugural committee made some arrangements on its own account. These included a cavalry escort of four troops for the President in his ride from his hotel to the Capitol and thence to the White House

This little cavalcade contrasted strangely with the great military and civil processions which have attended inaugurations for half a century or more

Besides the cavalry escort the Congressional committee also had arranged to have several companies of marines in full dress uniform at the Capitol as a guard of honor and for the presence of the Marine band—the President's own—which played The Star Spangled Banner immediately after Mr Harding had taken the oath of office

The very simplicity of the ceremonies on the east portico of the Capitol added to their impressiveness. Simple and impressive also were those in the Senate chamber, where Calvin Coolidge was sworn in by Vice-President Marshall and where Mr Coolidge in turn swore into office the new senators elected last November

WAS OVERSEAS VETERAN

William Payne Sherman aged [illegible] years publicity manager of the West Penn System and formerly a member of the staff of The Courier over a period of [illegible] died at his home in [illegible] Pittsburg at 11 o'clock last night after an illness dating from last [illegible] but not regarded as dangerous until [illegible] weeks ago. Beginning with an attack of [illegible] the ailment later developed into inflammation of the heart which assumed an acute stage on Sunday after which his condition gradually became worse. Mrs Sherman and his sister Miss Elizabeth Sherman were at his bedside when the end came

Mr Sherman was born in Pottsville Pa where he [illegible] He graduated from the high school of that city and [illegible] entered the newspaper field as a reporter for the Pottsville Journal. Later he went to Oil City where he served on the staff of the Derrick. [illegible] resigned to accept a position on The Courier in 191[illegible] [illegible] until January 1917 when he became city editor in which capacity he was serving at the time of his enlistment in Hospital Unit [illegible] in December 1917. After a period of training at Fort McPherson Atlanta this unit was sent overseas where it later became Camp Hospital No. 21. Mr Sherman was promoted to the rank of corporal served continuously with this organization and returned with it to the United States in the spring of 1919

A few weeks after he resumed work on The Courier as [illegible] editor which position he resigned in January 1920 to become manager of the newly created publicity department of the West Penn Interests with headquarters in Pittsburg. He later took up his residence at [illegible] Pittsburg where he died

Mr Sherman was a member of the Pottsville Lodge of Free and Accepted Masons and of the Uniontown Lodge of Perfection Scottish Rite and a member of the [illegible] Presbyterian church of Connellsville. He was one of the charter members of Milton L Bishop Post No 301 The American Legion and served as historian of the post during the first year of its organization. He was married December [illegible] 1917 to Miss Anna [illegible] DeMuth daughter of Mr and Mrs [illegible] DeMuth of North Pittsburg street. He is survived by Mrs Sherman and a daughter Anna Elizabeth born October 25 1920 and a sister Miss Elizabeth Sherman of Connellsville. His mother died at Pottsville [illegible]

Mr Sherman was a young man of [illegible] He was a gifted pianist, an ardent lover of music and possessed of a discriminating taste in his choice of reading matter. A newspaper worker he combined [illegible] an excellent newsgatherer with a happy faculty of expression illuminated with flashes of humor. He had [illegible] having been a frequent contributor to Judge and other well known humorous publications

He was [illegible] and by a [illegible] manner equally [illegible] and happy disposition won and held [illegible] admiration [illegible] In every way Mr Sherman was the type of man and citizen whose passing became more than a deep personal bereavement to those near and dear to him

The remains will be brought to the home of Mr DeMuth this evening [illegible] Arrangements for the funeral services have not yet been announced

PRESIDENT GIVES UP PLAN TO SEE THE INAUGURAL

Yields at Last Minute to Entreaties of Family and Physicians.

IN VERY WEAK CONDITION

WASHINGTON March 4—Yielding to last minute entreaties of his family and physician President Wilson took no part in the inaugural ceremonies today other than to accompany President-elect Harding from the White House to the Capitol. The outgoing President was not present at the ceremonies in the Senate chamber which attended the inauguration of Vice President-elect Coolidge nor the ceremonies on the plaza outside the Capitol where Mr Harding as President took the oath

Immediately after signing some bills in the President's room Mr Wilson returned to his car and was driven to his new home in S street. Walking feebly with the aid of a cane the outgoing President had persisted in carrying out as much of his part of the program as called for him to accompany his successor in the abbreviated inaugural procession from the executive mansion to the Capitol

When he departed from the White House it was necessary for secret service men to place his feet on each necessary step as he descended and it was apparent to all that it was next to impossible for him to take part in the ceremonies at the Capitol. Mr Wilson had been warned that he would do so at the risk of losing all the gains he had made toward health if not his life. Persisting at first he at last yielded and quit the Capitol before the ceremonies began

Mr Wilson departed from the Capitol at about 12 o'clock at the time ceremonies in the Senate chamber were about to begin

Wilson Retires to Private Life at National Capital

Will Give Time to Literature, Former Pursuit

By Associated Press

WASHINGTON March 4—Woodrow Wilson leaves the White House today to seek health and rest in [illegible] practical retirement for a few months and then pursue his work for world peace

Although it has been declared for him that he would cut himself off from public men and affairs it is known that for several months at least he will do little but take recreation. At his new home recently acquired here he will walk in the spacious garden and sit in the sunshine. He will motor over the rolling Virginia hills where he used to play golf and occasionally visit the theatre

After a few months of rest the former President probably will take up the business of literature where he left off when he became governor of New Jersey. He does not expect to write a history of the peace conference although he has in his private papers the greatest fund of material in the world on the subject. He does expect to pursue his ideal of world peace just in what manner probably no one else knows

The second Democratic President since Andrew Jackson to fill two consecutive terms Mr Wilson's eight years in the White House carried him through the range of human emotions. He was almost blindly idolized and cordially hated. Profound peace the most terrible of wars death of a wife and helpmate courtship and marriage and finally lingering illness all came in turn to brighten or darken his days. Eight years of it whitened his hair [illegible] his face and impaired his physical vigor but did not rust his mind

Not Planning History Peace Conference

Pledges All Agencies of the Government to Service.

HE INVITES CO-OPERATION

America Ready to Confer With Other Nations to End War, But Every Commitment Must Be Made in the Exercise of Our National Sovereignty.

By Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 4—President Harding's inaugural address was a reminder to the people of America that they with him have a "common concern and shared responsibility" and are "answerable to God and country" for their stewardship. The republic having summoned both he and they "to their duty," he invites the cooperation of the people in order that government may, indeed, be purely an expression of popular will" and implores the favor and guidance of God in the great problems that confront our country and his administration. The full text of his message follows

"My countrymen—When one surveys the world about him after the great storm noting the marks of destruction and yet rejoicing in the ruggedness of the things which withstood it, if he is an American he breathes the clarified atmosphere with a strange mingling of regret and new hope. We have seen world passion spend its fury but we contemplate our republic unshakened and hold our civilization secure. Liberty—liberty within the law and civilization are inseparable and though both were threatened we find them now secure and there comes to Americans the profound assurance that our representative government is the highest expression and surest guaranty of both

Standing in this presence mindful of the solemnity of this occasion feeling the emotions which no one may know until he senses the great weight of responsibility for himself I must utter my belief in the divine inspiration of the founding fathers. Surely there must have been God's intent in the making of this new-world republic. Ours is an organic law which had but one ambiguity and we saw that effaced in a baptism of sacrifice and blood with union maintained the nation supreme in its concord inspiring. We have seen the world rivet its hopeful gaze on the great proofs in which the wonders wrought. We have seen civil, human and religious liberty verified and glorified. In the beginning the old world scoffed at our experiment, today our foundation of political and social belief stand unshaken, a precious inheritance to ourselves, an inspiring example of freedom and civilization to all mankind. Let us express renewed and strengthened devotion in grateful reverence for the immortal beginning and utter our confidence in the supreme fulfillment

The recorded progress of our republic materially and spiritually in itself proved the wisdom of the inherited policy of non-involvement in old world affairs. Confident of our ability to work out our own destiny and jealously guarding our right to do so, we seek no part in directing the destinies of the old world. We do not mean to be entangled. We will accept no responsibility except as our own conscience and judgment in each instance may determine

DR. EVANS DECLARES TANLAC IS WONDERFUL

Well-Known Pittsburg Dentist Says He Now Eats Better, Sleeps Better and Works Better Than In Years.

Dr W C Evans the well-known dentist who has a suite of offices at 402 and 403 Century building Pittsburg Pa is still another professional man who, in spite of a natural distaste for indorsing proprietary medicines gives an unqualified recommendation of Tanlac. In relating his experience with this medicine he said

"I never expected to recommend a medicine but I feel I would be doing a positive wrong if I withheld from the public what I have learned by actual test of the powers of Tanlac Its effect upon me very clearly proves it to be a medicine of unusual even extraordinary merit For several years I had been in a run-down, nervous condition and was on the verge of a break-down In fact, I was so weak and nervous I had to give up the practice of my profession for a time

"I suffered torture from indigestion notwithstanding I ate from a carefully selected diet and only sparingly of that I tried a number of treatments and medicines without getting any results and finally I decided to give Tanlac a trial The results were so immediate and pronounced I was astonished for I was not expecting half as much good from the medicine as it did me and it was done in such a marvelously short time too

"I am eating better sleeping better and feeling better than I have in years In fact I am as well and strong as any reasonable man could expect After taking it I was soon able to open my offices and although I keep busy all day my condition is so fine that at nights I feel neither nervous nor tired

"There is not a doubt in my mind that Tanlac is unequalled among medicines designed to correct stomach trouble and build up run down systems It is truly a wonderful medicine

Tanlac is sold in Connellsville by all leading druggists—Adv

HUDSON SUPER-SIX

Have You Noted Its New Price Advantage?

Regardless of your ability to buy any car you choose consider if you can find the justification of finer quality in a costlier car than Hudson

To appreciate its value you need not be a Hudson enthusiast in the sense of those thousands who hold it essentially the greatest of all cars But you must recognize its long-held position among the leaders in performance, reliability and distinction

And consider what an endorsement is represented in its more than five years leadership of fine car sales

Now that its price advantage is even more intensified, will not its sixth year of sales leadership show even a greater margin of popular preference?

FRIDAY EVENING, MARCH 4, 1921.

DAWSON'S FINE EXAMPLE.

In promptly taking steps to supplement the generosity of Mrs. Sarah B. Cochran in providing a home for the local post of The American Legion, the people of Dawson have done just what was expected of them. In all the activities of war time which had to do with promoting the comfort and well-being of the men of that community who were serving their country at the front or in the training camps, and in rendering fitting honor to them since their return, the people of Dawson and vicinity have never failed to measure up to their opportunities. In fact, they have always done rather more than was expected of them.

It is therefore natural that when one of their number generously provides a home for the Milton J. Newmyer Post of The American Legion, other citizens of the community should have a desire to assist in equipping it as another means of showing their appreciation of the services and sacrifices of their "home town boys."

Dawson has thus furnished an example many other communities could follow with credit to themselves and to the intense gratification of the former service men to whom the country can never fully discharge its obligations. Right here in Connellsville there exists splendid opportunity to give equally definite expression of interest in the efforts the local ex-service men are making to provide a permanent home for their organization. We have done something along this line but it has been very much less than other towns have done and also less than has been needed to maintain the splendid record we made during the war.

The Germans have three days in which to do some hard thinking or prepare themselves to receive some hard jolts.

The veto of the emergency tariff bill shows that the ruling passion of Free Trade was strong in the death of the Democratic administration.

Has that person who charges Americans with being "lip lazy" ever attended a ball game and observed the lip movement of the rooters for the home team when, with the bases full, a popular batter knocked a home run?

This is The Day for Americans, and incidentally for Republicans also.

The Long, Long Trail began in Washington at high-noon today for the legion of "deserving" Democrats.

LIFE'S DIFFICULTIES.

A feller's life, it seems to me,
Ain't fixed the way it ought to be.
Jes' 'bout the time he's sleepin' good,
All warm an' snug so that he could
Stay there for several hours or more,
His Dad comes poundin' at the door,
Becoz the school bell's going to ring.

Then when he doesn't' want to sleep
An' really feels that he could keep
Awake all night, an' wants to stay
Down-stairs where they are anyway
An' read his book—as sure as fate
His Dad will say: "It's gettin' late!"
Afore he's got his chapter read.

It's funny, but somehow it's true,
When I ain't got a thing to do
An' ask for errands to the store,
There's nothing Ma can send me for;
But jes' let me begin to play
An' Ma comes callin' right away
An' busts the game up, cause I got
To go for things she needs a lot.

It rains when I don't want it to,
An' when I'm sick the skies are blue
An' all the sunbeams dance about
To make me wish I could go out.
If I was runnin' things down here,
I'd fix 'em so from year to year
That what we really had to do
Would be the things we wanted to.

Francis Lynde

This writer of great railroad stories was a railroader in the Rocky Mountains country until he was 37 years of age. Then he took his pen in hand to write big romances about the life he had witnessed and lived. During the first five years he had no conspicuous success, but in 1893 destiny resharpened the point of his fountain pen and he wrote three novels within twelve months. Each of the three was a ten-strike. Then the 25-cent and 35-cent magazines began to bid for his work and the little old 10-cent and 15-cent monthlies that had kept his pot boiling were deserted. During the past 20 years he has written 17 successful novels. Readers of this paper will have an opportunity to read his latest, probably his greatest story, "The Wreckers," as a serial.

The first installment appears in today's issue on page nine.

Farnum Raps Blue Laws and Tells of Movie Actor's Life

Franklin Farnum, movie actor, rapped the Sunday blue laws when he spoke at the Soisson and Paramount theatres yesterday and last night. He described the efforts of those back of the movement as trying to "take the sun out of Sunday."

"I don't understand why they are trying to stop Sunday movies," he said. "It is a shame to try to put over those blue laws. Enough has been taken away from us already. I don't believe in going to extremes."

Farnum gave the public a glimpse of the real life of a moving picture star. Working from 9 o'clock until 7 o'clock in the evening and often throughout the night until 7 o'clock in the morning again was frequently his lot, he said. Five to 10 weeks are generally required to complete a five-reel picture and the 4,000 to 5,000 feet the public sees is only the best part of 30,000 to 40,000 feet that has been filmed. A five reel picture generally had 500 scenes in it and only an average of 25 scenes may be taken a day, he said. He said the biggest part of the pictures are on the level although a little cheating is necessary at times.

Farnum was guest at a banquet at the Elks Home.

FIRST AID CONTEST

Local Bell Telephone Force to Compete For Prize of $100.

A first aid team has been organized at the Bell Telephone office here and, under the leadership of R. C. Witt, captain, will work one night each week to get in shape for a contest to take place at Greensburg next month. Uniontown and Brownsville also have teams. On the Connellsville outfit are R. C. Witt, captain, J. M. Robinson, Harry Storey, H. G. Moser and C. R. Patton.

At the meet to be held at Greensburg in April, a $100 prize will be awarded the winner. In May the winning teams of each district will compete, also at Greensburg, and then the winner will go to Philadelphia to compete in the state meet.

Old Drug Store Changes Hands.

To inform our customers and friends that we have sold our drug store to Mr. F. C. Hoffman, formerly with the Miller drug store, Greensburg, Pa., we take this opportunity to thank the patrons of this store. Words will not express our regrets for this separation, which has been the most agreeable. It has been a great pleasure to serve a trade that appreciated the courtesies of this store that have been at all times our desire to give. We have frequently expressed ourselves to the fact that we had the best trade in the state, because we had the best drug store. To verify this statement here are the figures. Our business for the five years that you have dealt with me, $84,423.50; our total loss through bad accounts, $14.02. This is something to feel proud of by both patron and ourselves, a thing not equalled in the United States. It was the kind of trade we had. And the kind of a man that trade was dealing with that done it. It is my belief that the new owner, Mr. Hoffman, will try to keep up the high standard of the store that put Scottdale on the map, for he is young, good looking and full of pep. Many times again, I thank the people who placed their confidence in us, and trusting your confidence will continue with the new owner. Yours respectfully, W. H. Forst.—Adv-4-1t

MILD REVIVAL IN IRON AND STEEL IS BELIEVED TO BE APPROACHING

Dullness Has Been So Great It Cannot Last Very Much Longer.

ALMOST NO COKE TRADE

Although a Fair Number of Foundry Sales Have Been Made, But These Show Decreasing Tendencies, Prices at Bottom Until Changes in Wages.

Special to the Weekly Courier.

PITTSBURG, March [illegible].—The coke market itself has been without important incident in the past week but the iron and steel trade has made some progress towards readjustment and it is a common view in the trade that a revival, even if a mild one, in business in the iron and steel industry generally is being approached.

There are two main reasons for the belief that an expansion in business will soon occur. One is that the dullness in the past few weeks has been altogether too great to last. Even in generally dull times there is a moderate amount of business done while in the past few weeks there has been scarcely any in pig iron, in unfinished steel and in finished steel products. The other reason is that spring is approaching and there is invariably heavier business in spring, unless there has previously been heavy buying in anticipation.

There is some merchant coke being made, shipped and consumed though by no means a great deal. The quantity is far below the normal even for dull times. As to sales there are practically none in furnace coke but there is a very fair number of sales in foundry coke. The [illegible] of sales of foundry coke is due to two influences, that nearly all consumers, including some that usually are large consumers, are buying single carloads now, and that many consumers who ordinarily contract for coke are without contracts now and the [illegible] buying from hand to mouth. Some [illegible] admit however that the volume of foundry coke sales has shown a tendency to decrease from week to week up to the [illegible] time. There are signs this week however of some revival in inquiry and hopes are entertained that in [illegible] weeks business in foundry coke will be somewhat more active.

As to coke prices it [illegible] now made clear that barring accidents, prices have gotten down to bottom as long as the present general wage scale remains. The chief testimony [illegible] the practical one that prices this week are quotable at precisely the same level as a week ago and two weeks ago. Certainly if the market were declining it would not allow two weeks to pass without any change. Market prices may be quoted as follows, the [illegible] for the past two weeks:

Spot furnace	[illegible]
Spot foundry	[illegible]
Contract furnace	$3.00 [illegible]
Contract foundry	$5.00

Leasing coke is bringing about [illegible] but there is not much demand [illegible] the heavy offerings. The [illegible] of spot furnace coke that [illegible] probably [illegible] more [illegible] likely to be called for in the [illegible] condition of the blast furnace industry. As to contract furnace the [illegible] nominal in that there is [illegible] but they represent an [illegible] the price range in the views of the operators who would like [illegible] contracts.

As a sufficient evidence of conditions in the blast furnace industry there are only four merchant blast furnaces active in the Mahoning and [illegible] Valleys, these being Cherry Valley at [illegible] O., [illegible] at [illegible] O., [illegible] at West Middlesex [illegible] and [illegible] at Sharon, Pa. Of [illegible] furnaces two or three may possibly blow out within a short time. [illegible] the [illegible] piling the major portion of their output and it is not considered good business to pile up [illegible] iron at present costs and with the present outlook. One of the [illegible] furnaces which was [illegible] after the other two Shenango furnaces had been blown out and was banked for [illegible] has now gone out of blast [illegible] as the prospect of its product being required in the near future had diminished.

There is [illegible] no demand for pig iron of any grade. In the past week there have been a few inquiries for lots ranging up to 500 tons, but as the largest inquiry represented merely a day's output of a single furnace the inquiry has not made any business worth mentioning and has barely sufficed to show where market prices stand. Bessemer and basic are not quotably changed from a week ago while foundry iron is quotable $1.50 lower at $26.50 Valley. This quotation has been made on several occasions. The market now stands quotable as follows:

Bessemer	$[illegible]
Basic	$[illegible]
Foundry	$[illegible]

These prices [illegible] Valley furnaces, freight to Pittsburg being $1.96.

The market is now quoted [illegible] considerably below the cost of production based on present cost of coke and on the cost of the iron ore being used which was bought last season. Ore prices in the new season are expected to be lower, possibly by as much as a dollar a ton, but even after a furnace had absorbed a loss of a dollar a ton on the ore the price of [illegible] iron of $25 Valley now quoted would represent a loss. Nor [illegible] there much room for further reduction in cost since the furnaces are up against [illegible] alone in the matter of the high freight rates they have to pay for [illegible] their raw material.

W. P. Snyder & Company report average prices of Valley Bessemer and basic pig iron in February, computed from actual sales reported in the trade, at $27 for Bessemer and $25 for Valley, or $3 under the January averages.

At the Theatres

THE SOISSON.

"DI[illegible]," Marshall Neilson's production with Wesley Barry in the leading role, is being shown today and will also be the feature attraction tomorrow. Mr. Neilan has a fine sense of comradeship with boys and a human touch which is always effective. He is therefore able to direct young Barry in "Dinty" to that engaging lad's great advantage. The scenes in which Wesley marshals his gang of newsboys, fights the opposition, gets licked or licks the other fellow and finally triumphs though his sad little mother dies are sympathetically handled. It is a great picture to the youngsters and with its melodramatic touches and its sub-plot romance is sufficiently interesting to hold the interest of the grown-up. Young Barry is a natural actor, most natural when he tries less to be so. His homely little mask is eloquently boyish, his happy smile a shaft of sunlight piercing the gloom of artificial plots, his active little body a flash of real drama. He is amusingly aided in "Dinty" by that comic smudge of negro black, Aaron Mitchell, and a six year old "Chink" who adds both comedy and pictorial value to the scene. The grown-ups include Marjorie Daw, Colleen Moore, J. Barney Sherry, Newton Hall and Noah Beery and they are all capable. A selected comedy is also included.

Monday and Tuesday Katherine MacDonald will be seen in "The Turning Point," a First National picture.

THE PARAMOUNT.

"THE SONG OF THE SOUL," a Goldwyn picture presenting Vivian Martin in the most ambitious role of her screen career, is the leading attraction today. While a group of children are playing on the street the frock of one little girl catches fire and a small boy goes to the rescue of his playmate and is trapped in the flames with the girl and both are badly burned. The boy, Westover, is terribly scarred on one side of his face and as he grows to manhood he is shunned by men and women. In his loneliness he turns to the solitude of the Backwater section in the south and the dislike which follows him is evidenced by the natives there.

Another afflicted person comes to the Backwater—Barbara, who is totally blind. Later as her aunt is dying she gets lost in the alligator infested swamp while coming to help and is found by Westover. Because of her need and her blindness a hope springs in his heart that he may not have to end a companionless life. The culmination of the story lies in an operation on Barbara and in the magnificent sacrifice which she makes for the sake of her husband so that he may still remain her lover. The picture will also be shown tomorrow.

FROM AMONG SPRING'S FASHIONS

It promises to be a colorful and gay spring in the world of frocks and prominent among the new colors comes tangerine. The dress shown is of heavy crepe de chine colored and cuffed with open worked organdy in ecru shade. The tunic which is cut a bit deeper over the hips has buttons self covered to trim it. The skirt is accordion pleated.

THE ORPHEUM.

"GIRL OF MY HEART," a delightful production in five acts featuring an all star cast is being shown today and will also be the attraction tomorrow. [illegible] adapted from Frances M[illegible] novel "Joan of Rainbow Springs," tells the story of Joan, a little waif who was ousted by the [illegible] of the orphanage for writing a sign and sent to the guardianship of an old woman whose constant abuse caused her to run away. How she accidentally met a young Southerner [illegible] prevented from telling [illegible] because of ill health [illegible] silhouettes as this man's adopted sister and with his old maid aunt and her development from adopted sister into sweetheart all this and more is told in what is described as an exceedingly dramatic story. Indian life figures largely in the tale. Shirley Mason as little Joan is said to give a most charming impersonation. Others in the cast include [illegible] McKee as [illegible], Martha Mattox, Al Fremont, Calvin Weller, Hooper [illegible] and Cecil Van Auker.

THE ARCADE.

The news that Mme. [illegible] is to play the Arcade next week has been received with much pleasure. Mme. Fay's fame is so far spread and so renowned is she who does wonderful feats of mind reading. The daily newspapers and magazines have been full of her feats for the past [illegible] years. It is only recently that scientists are generally beginning to give credence [illegible] argue the matters of mental telepathy and kindred subjects along [illegible] favorable lines. In the olden days they either called Mme. Fay's demonstration plain mysticism or termed the worse [illegible] and put her to the test. But now the scientists are again taking it up from a proper point of view [illegible] so long [illegible] they say that it is supernatural but [illegible] claim it to be quite natural and nothing extraordinary. Mme. Fay has been very successful in developing her entertaining powers. She needs no introduction to [illegible] patrons as she broke all house records during her engagement here [illegible] season.

Blower Recovers Waste Cement

The bags in which cement is shipped have a considerable return value, because of the character of the material entering into the manufacture, so that all large consumers find it necessary to see that these are gathered up and returned to the cement plant.

Heretofore it has been regarded as sufficient to turn the bag upside down and shake it as a means of emptying. But recently it has been found that this method is wasteful in the extreme and the cement is now recovered by a blower.

By this means from one and one half to two sacks of cement are recovered per 1,000 sacks cleaned. Two men can clean 2,000 sacks a day besides sorting, counting and bundling them. The cement recovered makes a credit to the cost of handling of about $2.50 a day.

Sell Many Door Locks

The crime wave is resulting in much new business for the hardware store man these days. Padlocks, heavy chains and burglar alarm devices are being sold like hot cakes and persons who never before thought to lock their doors are now taking double measures against intruders.

"Until a few months ago," said a hardware man, "we sold door chains only occasionally. Now we can't supply the demand. New Yorkers as a rule, are careless but I think that the present activity of the crooks will teach them a lesson. My advice to persons living in apartments is to keep their doors well chained. Professional crooks will get into almost any place, but extra precautions on hall doors will keep the sneak thief out."—New York Sun.

Senreco

REG. U.S. PAT. OFF.

The double-service tooth paste, keeps teeth clean AND GUMS HEALTHY.

Keeping the gums healthy and the mouth sweet is very important to health: more teeth are lost through the loosening of the tissue that holds the teeth in place than from decay.

Dental science to-day demands that a tooth paste must keep the gums healthy as well as clean the teeth.

Senreco was formulated to meet this requirement. Hundreds of dentists are prescribing and using Senreco because they have found that it does measure up to that standard.

SENRECO IS A WONDERFUL CLEANSER.

In addition to its remedial properties Senreco is a wonderful cleanser: acts directly on the mucin film, the basis of tartar; leaves the mouth cool and clean-feeling. As some one has expressed it—Senreco gives one a new idea on mouth cleanliness.

Get a tube to-day at your druggists or toilet counter—enjoy the healthy, cleanly feeling its use gives your mouth and gums. Notice how brilliantly white Senreco makes your teeth. It performs this two-fold service for you and yet costs no more than the ordinary, old-fashioned tooth paste that simply cleans the teeth and leaves a pleasant taste.

CARD FOR FIGHT AT SLAVISH HALL NOW [illegible] FILLED; CASEY WINS

Vic Broze of South Pittsburg, Will Meet Pollock in Semi-Final Contest.

BOTH PREDICT A KAYO

Vic Broze the south Pittsburg slugger, has been selected to oppose Johnny Pollock the local favorite in the semi-final contest of the Lafayette Athletic club's boxing show tonight at Slavish hall. Broze will make his initial appearance here tonight. He is a fast and aggressive mixer who will make the Dawson [illegible] step at high speed to check him. Vic will come here fresh from his sensational victory over Young Katchi whom he defeated in the Star bout at the Academy theatre last Tuesday night. This contest will precede the star bout between Johnny Ward of McKeesport and Charley Dunn of Cambridge.

The club has rounded out its card with the signing of a welter weight of the Dunn-Lavender stable. This boy will hook up with Buck K[illegible] in the opening number of six rounds. All together the card will be bimful of heavy hitting. Both Dunn and Ward are in excellent condition and each vows he will win via the knockout route. That Dunn has hit his kayo stride again can be laid to by the fact that at Sebring, O. Thursday night he knocked out his opponent in the third round of a 10 round affair and it took two doctors over three hours to bring the boxer around.

The first bout will start promptly at 8:30 o'clock. Eddie [illegible] will again be on deck to announce the bouts and introduce the boys. The tickets which have been on sale all week will be retained at the West Penn billiard parlors and at Tony Rendine's place until 8 o'clock.

DAWSON WINS TWO FROM VANDERBILT

Dawson after losing the first game to Vanderbilt came back strong in the second and third games with good scores and won two out of three. The Dawson bowlers also rolled the highest score of the league for three games a total of 1[illegible]91 pins.

Following is the score:

Dawson	1	2	3
Moore	140	101	8[illegible]
McCune	1[illegible]	199	149
White	7
Crawford		[illegible]	12[illegible]

Tonight: Red Sox vs. Dicker on Kun[illegible]

UNION HIGH AT H. S. TONIGHT

The Union High school of Little Creek will play the Cokers at the gym here tonight. The Pittsburgers are members of the W. P. I. A. league which adds interest to the game. In a previous contest the Cokers won 18-1[illegible].

The Norwin High team which defeated Connellsville at that place, will play tomorrow night.

CASEY WINS GAME FROM SUPERIORS

The Casey club took its test last night and still decisively defeated the Superior quintet of Mount Pleasant in a game played on the armory floor. The score was 3[illegible]-2[illegible].

B. Pritchard and F. Pritchard led in the scoring for the Casey aggregation getting seven and six goals respectively.

HIGH SCHOOL GIRLS PLAY DONORA TOMORROW AT [illegible]

The high school girls' basketball team will play the Donora girls tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock. The Coker lassies won over Donora at that place last week after trailing behind throughout the first three quarters.

The [illegible] schedule is nearing an end and a really first class feminine aggregation will disband.

* * * *

The McKeesport High team undefeated this season beat the Pitt Freshmen 2[illegible]-1[illegible] after a five minute extra period on Wednesday. Having seen McKeesport in action we are full of sympathy for what will be left of the Uniontown quintet after it meets the Pitt yearlings.

* * * *

The Westmoreland Grocery bowlers defeated the Plungers, a newly organized team on Wednesday night taking all games of a three game match by a total margin of 72 pins. The new team is composed of E. Conway, R. C. Rowen, T. Roberts and H. Hoover.

SCHANG ALONE SATISFACTORY

Miller Huggins Doesn't Care Much About Other Boston Players if Catcher Makes Good

According to reports Manager Miller Huggins doesn't care whether any of the players received by the Yankees in the trade with the Red Sox make good as long as Wallie Schang can get in and catch the article of ball of which he is capable.

ALL JACK DEMPSEY CAN DO IS HIT SAYS BUG

Three battle bugs were discussing the Dempsey-Carpentier bout. One appeared to be an ardent supporter of the French man, the other two sticking to the Dempsey side of the argument.

"So you really believe that Carpentier has a chance to beat the champion?" said a Dempsey admirer.

"Listen, Carpentier is a combination of a boxer and a fighter," was the verbal punch shot back at the champion's supporter. "The Frenchman has the brains, the speed and everything that makes a great fighter."

"Well, how about Dempsey?"

"Oh, Dempsey! Why all he can do is hit."

That remark settled the argument.

MOST TIMELY HITTER IN NATIONAL LEAGUE

Like Hornsby, Frisch Is Ball Player Wihout Price.

Long Winning Streak of John McGraw's Giants Attributed to Playing of Star Infielder—Batting Average of 280

Frank Frisch is a ball player without price. When McGraw offered $300,000—more or less—and four players for Rogers Hornsby, Branch Rickey, Hornsby's keeper said:

"All right, John, if you throw in Frisch."

Then McGraw hung up the receiver and went back to Cuba.

As a timely hitter Frisch outranks Hornsby.

Frisch batted in 77 runs in 110 games for an average of 700. Hornsby batted in 94 runs in 140 games with the average of 630.

To Frisch is attributed the long winning streak of the Giants last summer that made them pennant contenders the last few weeks of the season.

Frank Frisch

From the day Frisch rejoined the team after an illness they began to play ball. His pep, speed, timely hitting, occasional stunts hypodermicked the whole team.

A time hitter is the best bet on any ball club.

The batter who can hit in the pinches is worth more to a club than a Babe Ruth so far as winning pennants is concerned.

Frisch hit only .280 but he connected when hits meant runs oftener than any other National leaguer.

Jaber White the Albany lightweight is anxious to meet Joe Lynch. Lynch and White have fought two draws, one at Boston and the other at Madison Square Garden.

his legs. It was the lodging of a blood clot in an artery, but because of its location not serious. It was, however, a complaint of the same nature which caused his breakdown in 1919, when the clot formed on the right side of his brain impairing the control of his left arm and leg.

Little known, also, is the fact that Mr. Wilson, like Mr. Roosevelt, was practically sightless in one of his eyes. Bursting blood vessels in the retina practically made it useless, although the impairment was in part overcome by the use of eye glasses. He suffered also from nervous indigestion. With a predisposition to take cold easily adding to this list of troubles, Woodrow Wilson took up the arduous duties of the Presidency with far less physical equipment than the public generally gave him credit for.

Once in office the round of complexities which brought Mr. Wilson praise on one side and damnation on the other was not long in starting, and like a snow-ball rolling down hill continued to take on volume until the day of his departure from the White House.

Once, in the midst of his siege of prostration which accompanied the first stages of his present illness he debated with himself whether he ought not to relinquish his office and give way to a successor. Later when health had improved and the Democratic convention at San Francisco was balloting night and day to agree on a presidential nominee, Mr. Wilson debated with himself whether he should be a candidate for a third term. It could not be said that either subject reached the stage of "being considered." But it is known that Mr. Wilson gave the subjects some thought.

These with many other things form the highly interesting unwritten chapters of Woodrow Wilson's life. They would make a volume of far more engrossing reading than anything that ever had been written about him.

What part he may take in public affairs in the future, living as he will almost under the shadow of the dome of the Capitol, is causing lively speculation. So far as the records show no other President has remained in Washington after going out of office. Mr. Wilson first intended to live in Baltimore. He and Mrs. Wilson settled it, by playing a game the President invented during an idle hour on the steamer George Washington on one of the trips to and from the peace conference. It was a game of percentages with certain scores alloted to the various advantages or amusements of life of which both were most fond. Baltimore, as the game worked out, had the highest total. But breakdown and continued illness intervened and it was decided to remain in Washington, where almost all of Mrs. Wilson's family reside.

The new home, bought recently, is on an elevation in the northwest residence section not far from a site long held by the imperial German government for embassy. Mr. Wilson expects to spend the future almost on the spot where the kaiser expected his ambassador to sit.

Because of the secrecy which has been thrown around his physical condition, the country is probably most interested in that just now. Mr. Wilson is convalescent—so far as nature permits—from what medically is called thrombosis—a blood clot in one of the arteries on the right side of his brain which impairs the motor nerves in the left arm and leg. He can walk short distances alone with the aid of a cane; longer distances require the the use of a wheel chair. Walking up and down stairs is a precarious experiment seldom attempted.

Mr. Wilson was not stricken on the League of Nations speaking trip in the west, as is popularly supposed, but within a week after he returned to the White House. Warning signals of the coming attack where what caused his return. For three days after he came back he seemed to be improving; in fact, he took a motor ride the day before he was laid low, and on the night before played billiards. The seizure came in the night, at an hour when the President was alone, and he was found stricken just before daylight.

For a week his life was despaired of but his real condition was kept secret by his family. Then came a turn for the better and for many weeks the President was confined to his bed—a bed in which Abraham Lincoln before him probably had passed many a night of pain and sleeplessness of a different nature. Even the White House barber was not admitted to the room, and Mr. Wilson, usually clean shaven, grew a beard, and made humorous remarks to his physicians and family as he brushed it for amusement several times a day.

In the midst of the illness an unlooked for muscular complication set in and refused to yield to treatment. While physicians and surgeons anxiously consulted downstairs as to whether the President's physique could withstand the shock of a surgical operation and had about decided that it was a life or death chance, a nurse arrived with the news that nature had intervened and that the operation would be unnecessary. From that moment slow recovery set in.

Motor nerves which had refused to respond to needle pricks showed signs of reaction. Pretty soon Mr. Wilson was about in a wheel chair. A few weeks later he was learning to walk again with the support of an attendant. Massage, electricity and everything known to science were employed to coax his muscular activities back into action. Then he got out-of-doors, for motor rides, and received some visitors. He took up a routine of a few hours work each day dictating to stenographers and increased the time as strength gathered.

One evening he surprised Washington by going to the theatre and walking only with the aid of a cane which he humorously called "my third leg." He probably never will play golf again and may never deliver another public speech although he will write what he has to say. In what [illegible] no one knows. His friends [illegible] may be a large one.

Washington will now have a President and one of the two living ex-Presidents on its hand and officialdom is very much interested to see how it will work out.

YOUR FRECKLES

Need Attention in March or Face May Stay Covered.

Now is the time to take special care of the complexion if you wish to look well the rest of the year. The March winds have a strong tendency to bring out freckles that may stay all summer unless removed. Now is the time to use Othine—double strength.

This preparation for the removal of freckles is usually so successful that it is sold by druggists under guarantee to refund the money if it fails. Get an ounce of Othine—double strength, and even a few applications should show a wonderful improvement, some of the smaller freckles even vanishing entirely.—Adv.

GRANDMA USED SAGE TEA TO DARKEN HAIR

She Mixed Sulphur With It to Restore Color, Gloss, Youthfulness.

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea with sulphur added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant. Just a few applications will prove a revelation if your hair is fading, streaked or gray. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get a bottle of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound at any drug store all ready for use. This is the old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients.

While wispy, gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared, and, after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant.—Adv.

DICKERSON RUN, March [illegible]—Miss Florence Smith, first aid instructor, held a very interesting meeting with the local class yesterday in the auditorium of the Y. M. C. A.

Omar French has returned to his work in West Virginia after spending a few days here visiting his mother, Mrs. Mary French.

Sergeant William Eaton returned to his regiment at Camp Pike, Little Rock, Ark., after spending two weeks furlough visiting his brother, John Eaton of Vanderbilt.

F. B. Galley of Vanderbilt is spending this week on a business trip to Philadelphia.

The Pittsburg & Lake Erie railroad continues to reduce its working force. On Saturday 20 engineers and 28 firemen were furloughed.

G. W. Beatty of Dickerson Run, H. G. Harris, Dawson and H. V. Madden, Vanderbilt, attended a conference of the Pittsburg & Lake Erie system council at McKees Rocks.

James Gillespie of McKees Rocks spent Sunday here visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Gillespie.

Mrs. Anna Moran of Scottdale was the guest of her daughter Mrs. James Beatty, yesterday.

HE WON'T DROP DEAD ANY MORE

"My husband suffered terribly from stomach and liver trouble which caused such bloating of gas as to seriously affect his heart. Doctors warned him that he might drop dead at any time from his trouble. A friend in Cleveland advised him to take Mayr's Wonderful Remedy and since taking it, four months ago, he is feeling like a young man again. All his friends are surprised at his appearance." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded.—Adv.

Dawson.

DAWSON, March 4.—Mr. and Mrs. Charles Harper are visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hansel, Uniontown.

Mrs. E. McGill has returned home from a few weeks' visit with her daughter, Mrs. James Hurst, Scottdale.

Mrs. James Hurst of Scottdale spent Wednesday with friends and relatives here.

Gertrude Sipe was the guest of friends in Connellsville Wednesday.

Ray Leasure has bought a lot in North Dawson and expects to build in the near future.

Do This For Constipation

THE public should know that there is a vast difference in the action of the various remedies for constipation. Some are "flushes," purges, physics. They gripe and weaken.

For lasting effect use a laxative. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin acts gently and mildly so that even a tiny baby can use it with safety. It is a compound of Egyptian Senna and other simple laxative herbs with pepsin and pleasant-tasting aromatics. A sixty-cent bottle will last an average family many months.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is the most popular of all laxatives and more is used in American homes than any other. Last year eight million bottles were sold by druggists, the largest sale in the world.

People Summoned to Duty With Him by President

Our eyes never will be blind to a developing menace, our ears never deaf to the call of civilization. We recognize the new order in the world, with the closer contacts which progress has wrought. We sense the call of the human heart for fellowship, fraternity and co-operation. We crave friendship and harbor no hate. But America, our America, the America builded on the foundation laid by the inspired fathers, can be a party to no permanent military alliance. It can enter into no political commitments, nor assume any economic obligations which will subject our decisions to any other than our own authority.

I am sure our own people will not misunderstand, nor will the world misconstrue. We have no thought to impede the paths to closer relationship. We wish to promote understanding. We want to do our part in making offensive warfare so hateful that governments and people who resort to it must prove the righteousness of their cause or stand as outlaws before the bar of civilization.

Association For Counsel

We are ready to associate ourselves with the nations of the world, great and small, for conference, for counsel, to seek the expressed views of world opinion, to recommend a way to approximate disarmament and relieve the crushing burdens of military and naval establishments. We elect to participate in suggesting plans for mediation, conciliation and arbitration, and would gladly join in that expressed conscience of progress which seeks to clarify and write the laws of international relationship, and establish a world court for the disposition of such justiciable questions as nations are agreed to submit thereto. In expressing aspirations, in seeking practical plans, in translating humanity's new concept of righteousness and justice and its hatred of war into recommended action we are ready most heartily to unite, but every commitment must be made in the exercise of our national sovereignty. Since freedom impelled and independence inspired and nationality exalted, a world supergovernment is contrary to everything we cherish and can have no sanction by our republic. This is not selfishness, it is sanctity. It is not aloofness, it is security. It is not suspicion of others, it is patriotic adherence to the things which made us what we are.

Today, better than ever before, we know the aspirations of humankind and share them. We have come to a new realization of our place in the world and a new appraisal of our nation by the world. The unselfishness of these United States is a thing proven, our devotion to peace for ourselves and for the world is well established, our concern for preserved civilization has had its impassioned and heroic expression. There was no American failure to resist the attempted reversion of civilization; there will be no failure today or tomorrow.

Rests on Popular Will

The success of our popular government rests wholly upon the correct interpretation of the deliberate, intelligent, dependable popular will of America. In a deliberate questioning of a suggested change of national policy, where internationality was to supersede nationality, we turned to a referendum to the American people. There was ample discussion and there is a public mandate in manifest understanding.

America is ready to encourage, eager to initiate, anxious to participate in any seemly program likely to lessen the probability of war and promote that brotherhood of mankind which must be God's highest conception of human relationship. Because we cherish ideals of justice and peace, because we appraise international comity and helpful relationship no less highly than any people of the world, we aspire to a high place in the moral leadership of civilization, and we hold a maintained America, the proven republic, the unshaken temple of representative democracy, to be not only an inspiration and example, but the highest agency of strengthening good will and promoting accord on both continents.

Mankind needs a world-wide benediction of understanding. It is needed among individuals, among peoples, among governments, and it will inaugurate an era of good feeling to mark the birth of a new order. In such understanding men will strive confidently for the promotion of their better relationships and nations will promote the comities so essential to peace.

Trade Ties Bind Closely

We must understand that ties of trade bind nations in closest intimacy, and none may receive except as he gives. We have not strengthened ours in accordance with our resources or our genius, notably on our own continent, where a galaxy of republics reflect the glory of new world democracy, but in the new order of finance and trade we mean to promote enlarged activities and seek expanded confidence.

Perhaps we can make no more helpful contribution by example than prove a republic's capacity to emerge from the wreckage of war. While the world's embittered travail did not leave us devastated lands nor desolated cities, left no gaping wounds, no breast with hate, it did involve us in the delirium of expenditure, in expanded currency and credits, in unbalanced industry, in unspeakable waste and disturbed relationships. While it uncovered our portion of hateful selfishness at home, it also revealed the heart of America as sound and fearless, and beating in confidence unfailing.

Amid it all we have riveted the gaze of all civilization to the unselfishness and the righteousness of representative democracy, where our freedom never has made offensive warfare, never has sought territorial aggrandizement through force, never has turned to the arbitrament of arms until reason has been exhausted. When the governments of the earth shall have established a freedom like our own and shall have sanctioned the pursuit of peace as we have practiced it, I believe the last sorrow and the final sacrifice of international warfare will have been written.

Our Supreme Task

Our supreme task is the resumption of our onward, normal way. Reconstruction, readjustment, restoration—all these must follow. I would like to hasten them. If it will lighten the spirit and add to the resolution with which we take up the task, let me repeat for our nation, we shall give no people just cause to make war upon us; we hold no national prejudices; we entertain no spirit of revenge; we do not hate, we do not covet; we dream of no conquest, nor boast of armed prowess.

If, despite this attitude, war is again forced upon us, I earnestly hope a way may be found which will unify our individual and collective strength and consecrate all America, materially and spiritually, body and soul, to national defense. I can vision the ideal republic, where every man and woman is called under the flag for assignment to duty, for whatever service, military or civic, the individual is best fitted; where we may call to universal service every plant, agency or facility, all in the sublime sacrifice for country, and not one penny of war profit shall inure to the benefit of private individual, corporation or combination, but all above the normal shall flow into the defense chest of the nation. There is something inherently wrong, something out of accord with the ideals of representative democracy, when one portion of our citizenship turns its activities to private gain amid defensive war while another is fighting, sacrificing or dying for national preservation.

Unity of Spirit and Purpose

Out of such universal service will come a new unity of spirit and purpose, a new confidence and consecration, which would make our defense impregnable, our triumph assured. Then we should have little or no disorganization of our economic, industrial and commercial systems at home, no staggering war debts, no swollen fortunes to flout the sacrifices of our soldiers, no excuse for sedition, no pitiable slackerism, no outrage of treason. Envy and jealousy would have no soil for their menacing development, and revolution would be without the passion which engenders it.

A regret for the mistakes of yesterday must not, however, blind us to the tasks of today. War never left such an aftermath. There has been staggering loss of life and measureless wastage of materials. Nations are still groping for return to stable ways. Discouraging indebtedness confronts us like all the war-torn nations, and these obligations must be provided for. No civilization can survive repudiation.

We can reduce the abnormal expenditures, and we will. We can strike at war taxation, and we must. We must face the grim necessity with full knowledge that the task is to be solved, and we must proceed with a full realization that no statute enacted by man can repeal the inexorable laws of nature. Our most dangerous tendency is to expect too much of the government, and at the same time do for it too little.

We contemplate the immediate task of putting our public household in order. We need a rigid and yet sane economy, combined with fiscal justice, and it must be attended by individual prudence to this trying hour and reassuring for the future.

Reflection of War's Reaction.

The business world reflects the disturbance of war's reaction. Herein flows the lifeblood of material existence. The economic mechanism is intricate and its parts interdependent, and has suffered the shocks and jars incident to abnormal demands, credit inflations and price upheavals. The normal balances have been impaired, the channels of distribution have been clogged, the relations of labor and management have been strained. We must seek the readjustment with care and courage. Our people must give and take. Prices must reflect the receding fever of war activities. Perhaps we never shall know the old levels of wages again, because war invariably readjusts compensations, and the necessaries of life will show their inseparable relationship, but we must strive for normalcy to reach stability. All the penalties will not be light, nor evenly distributed. There is no way of making them so. There is no instant step from disorder to order. We must face a condition of grim reality, charge off our losses and start afresh. It is the oldest lesson of civilization. I would like government to do all it can to mitigate; then, in understanding, in mutuality of interest, in concern for the common good, our tasks will be solved. No altered system will work a miracle. Any wild experiment will only add to the confusion. Our best assurance lies in efficient administration of our proven system.

From Destruction to Production.

The forward course of the business cycle is unmistakable. Peoples are turning from destruction to production. Industry has sensed the changed order and our own people are turning to resume their normal, onward way. The call is for productive America to go on. I know that Congress and the administration will favor every wise government policy to aid the resumption and encourage continued progress.

I speak for administrative efficiency, for lightened tax burdens, for sound commercial practices, for adequate credit facilities, for sympathetic concern for all agricultural problems, for the omission of unnecessary interference of government with business, for an end to government's experiment in business and for more efficient business in government administration. With all of this must attend a mindfulness of the human side of all activities, so that social, industrial and economic justice will be squared with the purposes of a righteous people.

With the nation-wide induction of womanhood into our political life, we may count upon her intuitions, her refinements, her intelligence and her influence to exalt the social order. We count upon her exercise of the full privileges and the performance of the duties of citizenship to speed the attainment of the highest state.

Prayer For Industrial Peace

I wish for an America no less alert in guarding against dangers from within than it is watchful against enemies from without. Our fundamental law recognizes no class, no group, no section; there must be none in legislation or administration. The supreme inspiration is the common weal. Humanity hungers for international peace, and we crave it with all mankind. My most reverent prayer for America is for industrial peace, with its rewards widely and generally distributed, amid the inspirations of equal opportunity. No one justly may deny the equality of opportunity which made us what we are. We have mistaken unpreparedness to embrace it to be a challenge of the reality, and due concern for making all citizens fit for participation will give added strength of citizenship and magnify our achievement.

If revolution insists upon overturning established order, let other peoples make the tragic experiment. There is no place for it in America. When world war threatened civilization we pledged our resources and our lives to its preservation, and when revolution threatens we unfurl the flag of law and order and renew our consecration. Ours is a constitutional freedom where the popular will is the law supreme and minorities are sacredly protected. Our revisions, reformations and evolutions reflect a deliberate judgment and an orderly progress, and we mean to cure our ills, but never destroy or permit destruction by force.

I had rather submit our industrial controversies to the conference table in advance than to a settlement table after conflict and suffering. The earth is thirsting for the cup of good will, understanding is its fountain source. I would like to acclaim an era of good feeling amid dependable prosperity and all the blessings which attend.

Protection of Industries

It has been proved again and again that we can not, while throwing our markets open to the world, maintain American standards of living and opportunity, and hold our industrial eminence in such unequal competition. There is a luring fallacy in the theory of banished barriers of trade, but preserved American standards require our higher production costs to be reflected in our tariffs on imports. Today, as never before, when peoples are seeking trade restoration and expansion, we must adjust our tariffs to the new order. We seek participation in the world's exchanges, because therein lies our way to widened influence and the triumphs of peace. We know full well we can not sell where we do not buy, and we can not sell successfully where we do not carry. Opportunity is calling not alone for the restoration, but for a new era in production, transportation and trade. We shall answer it best by meeting the demand of a surpassing home market, by promoting self-reliance in production, and by bidding enterprise, genius and efficiency to carry our cargoes in American bottoms to the marts of the world.

An America of Homes

We would not have an America living within and for herself alone, but we would have her self-reliant, independent and ever nobler, stronger and richer. Believing in our higher standards, reared through constitutional liberty and maintained opportunity, we invite the world to the same heights. But pride in things wrought is no reflex of a completed task. Common welfare is the goal of our national endeavor. Wealth is not inimical to welfare; it ought to be its friendliest agency. There never can be equality of rewards or possessions so long as the human plan contains varied talents and differing degrees of industry and thrift, but ours ought to be a country free from great blotches of distressed poverty. We ought to find a way to guard against the perils and penalties of unemployment. We want an America of homes, illumined with hope and happiness, where mothers, freed from the necessity for long hours of toil beyond their own doors, may preside as befits the hearthstone of American citizenship. We want the cradle of American childhood rocked under conditions so wholesome and so hopeful that no blight may touch it in its development, and we want to provide that no selfish interest, no material necessity, no lack of opportunity shall prevent the gaining of that education so essential to best citizenship.

There is no short cut to the making of these ideals into glad realities. The world has witnessed again and again the futility and the mischief of ill-considered remedies for social and economic disorders. But we are mindful today as never before of the friction of modern industrialism, and we must learn its causes and reduce its evil consequences by sober and tested methods. Where genius has made for great possibilities, justice and happiness must be reflected in a greater common welfare.

Service the Supreme Commitment

Service is the supreme commitment of life. I would rejoice to acclaim the era of the Golden Rule and crown it with the autocracy of service. I pledge an administration wherein all the agencies of government are called to serve, and ever promote an understanding of government purely as an expression of the popular will.

One can not stand in this presence and be unmindful of the tremendous responsibility. The world upheaval has added heavily to our tasks. But with the realization comes the surge of high resolve, and there is reassurance in belief in the God-given destiny of our republic. If I felt that there is to be sole responsibility in the executive for the America of tomorrow I should shrink from the burden. But here are a hundred millions, with common concern and shared responsibility, answerable to God and country. The republic summons them to their duty, and I invite co-operation.

I accept my part with single-mindedness of purpose and humility of spirit, and implore the favor and guidance of God in His heaven. With these I am unafraid, and confidently face the future.

I have taken the solemn oath of office on that passage of Holy Writ wherein it is asked: "What doth the Lord require of thee but to do justly, and to love mercy, and to walk humbly with thy God?" This I plight to God and country.

FUEL BRIQUETTING MADE A NEW RECORD DURING PAST YEAR

Output 567,192, Nearly Double That of 1919, Value $4,250,000, or an Average of $7.50 Per Ton

A new record in the production of fuel briquets was established in 1920, according to reports made to the United States Geological Survey by [illegible] operators of briquetting plants. The total output was 567,192 tons, nearly double that of 1919. The value [illegible] was $4,250,000, an average of $[illegible] a ton.

The growth of the industry during the past [illegible] years is shown in the following tabulation:

[illegible]

In [illegible] 1920 [illegible] plants [illegible] one at Lukens, Pennsylvania, and one at New York, all using anthracite as a raw fuel.

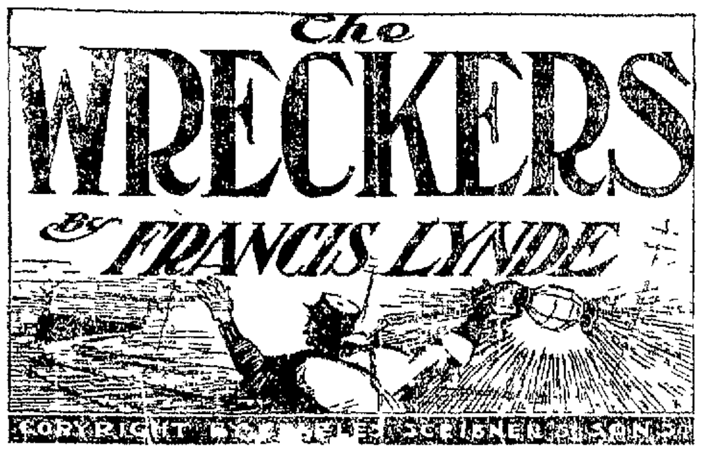
Materials employed in briquetting during 1920 were as follows in tons:

Anthracite culm and fine sizes	3[illegible]0
Semi-anthracite and semi-bituminous	5[illegible]7
Slack and oil gas residue	8[illegible]6
Total	[illegible]9

Of the [illegible] plants in operation in 1920 [illegible] used anthracite as a raw material, one at Arkansas used semianthracite, one a mixture of anthracite and bituminous slack, one semi-bituminous slack, one a mixture of bituminous slack and sub-bituminous coal, one lignite and two carbon residue from the manufacture of oil gas.

PROTESTS USE OF FLAG

Wearing of the American flag by boxers appearing in bouts in Massachusetts is prohibited in a ruling announced by the state boxing commission. The ruling was made at the request of the American Legion. The commission also requested that boxers refrain from making religious signs in the ring.



CHAPTER I

At Sand Creek Siding

As a general proposition I [illegible] believe much in the things called "hunches." But there are exceptions to all rules, and we certainly uncovered the biggest one of the lot—the boss and I—the night we left Portland and the good old Pacific coast.

It was this way. We had finished the construction work on the Oregon Midland, and were on our way to the train when I had one of those queer little premonitory chills you hear so much about and knew just as well as I could be that we were never going to pull through to Chicago without getting a [illegible] of some sort. The reason—if you'll call it a reason—was that just before we came to the railroad station the boss walked calmly under a ladder standing in front of a new building, and besides that it was the thirteenth day of the month, a Friday, and raining like the very mischief.

Just to sort of toll us along, maybe, the fates didn't begin on us that night. They waited until the next day and then proceeded to shove us in behind a freight-train wreck at Widner, Idaho, where we lost twelve hours. It looked as if that didn't amount to much, because we weren't due anywhere at any particular time. The boss was on his way home for a little visit with his folks in Illinois, and beyond that he was going to meet a bunch of Englishmen in Montreal and maybe let them [illegible] him general manager of one of the Canadian railroads.

So Mr. Norcross was in no great hurry, and neither was I. I had been confidential clerk and shorthand man for the boss on the Midland construction, and he was taking me along partly because he knows a cracking good stenographer when he sees one, but mostly because I was dead anxious to see where he was going.

But if it hadn't been for that twelve-hour lay-on we would have caught the Saturday night train on the Pioneer Short Line instead of the train Sunday evening, and there would have been no meeting with Mrs. Sheila and Maisie Ann, no telegram from Mr. Chadwick, because it [illegible] nobody [illegible] us [illegible] holding up at Sand Creek [illegible], nothing would have happened that did happen.

[illegible] Mr. Norcross [illegible] section [illegible] business [illegible] quiet [illegible] right of way through the [illegible] tunnels.

[illegible] he sat [illegible] to the [illegible] was [illegible] forward and now [illegible] I took time [illegible] he was [illegible] One of the times [illegible] full wrist [illegible] to smoke [illegible] thousand lines [illegible] to catch up I made [illegible] people in Section Five just ahead of us a young woman and a girl of maybe fifteen [illegible]. The Pullman was the old-fashioned kind with low seat backs. I put it up that in those [illegible] spaced intervals Mr. Norcross had been sizing up the [illegible] young woman [illegible]. It wasn't the little girl.

Along in the forenoon I made an excuse to go and get a drink of water out of the [illegible] and on the way back I took a good square look at our neighbors in Number Five. The young woman was pretty enough to start a stopped clock—only "pretty" isn't just the word, either. There wasn't any word which you could [illegible] down to it. And the little girl was simply a peach—a [illegible] downy rosy peach, chunky, round-faced, sunny-haired jolly, with a nice little turned-up nose and big sort of boyish laughing eyes that fairly dared the world.

At the second call to dinner Mr. Norcross told me to strap up the machine and put the files away in the grips, and we [illegible]. He was pretty [illegible] breathing [illegible] in the diner and [illegible] to tell me that he'd just had a forwarded telegram from an old friend of his that would stop us off for a day or two in Portal City, the headquarters of the Pioneer Short Line. [illegible] he [illegible] pretty well into the ice cream [illegible] to ask me if I had noticed the young lady and the girl in the Pullman section next to ours.

I told him I had, and then because I had [illegible] him [illegible] bother [illegible] for two [illegible] in succession [illegible] any woman [illegible] she [illegible] they were [illegible] to Portal City—and [illegible] out he must have asked the train conductor, [illegible] that when we [illegible] it would be the neighborly thing for me to do to help them off with their hand bags and see that they got a cab if they wanted one.

"Sure I will," says I. "That is, if the lady's husband isn't there to meet them. Her suit case has her name: 'Mrs. Sheila Murtha' on it."

The boss has a way of making two up-and-down wrinkles and a little curved horseshoe line come between his eyes when he is going to [illegible] for you.

"There are times, Jimmie, when you see altogether too much," he said, sort of gruff.

"Maybe," says I. "But [illegible]. And so is 'Sheila.' [illegible] names, both of them, are only hand-downs. She looks straight Amer[illegible] to me."

"She is pretty enough to [illegible] anything. I threw in just [illegible] he would take it.

"Right you are, Jimmie," he [illegible]. "I've been looking at the back of her neck all day. There are so many women who don't measure up to the promises they make when you see them from behind. You catch a glimpse of a pretty neck, and when you get around to the face you find out that the neck was only a bit of bluff."

If I had been eating anything in the world but ice cream I [illegible] it would have choked me. When he [illegible] up to the admission that he had been making these [illegible] comparisons for goodness [illegible] was [illegible] and I couldn't surround that all at once. You see he was [illegible] of a man's man [illegible] the word, a fighter and [illegible] right from the [illegible]. And to a man of that sort women, as usual, [illegible] little [illegible] made [illegible] of [illegible].

That ended the [illegible] it. The [illegible] was coupled at the rear end of our Pullman, which happened to be the last car in the train. As we walked back after dinner Mr. Norcross gave me a cigar and said we'd go out to the observation platform and smoke. When we reached [illegible] the young lady and the girl standing at the rear railing to watch the [illegible] itself under the [illegible]. The young lady was wearing [illegible] a storm collar, but the girl had [illegible] hung around her [illegible] chilly.

The boss stepped out on the platform [illegible] the [illegible] trap-door which [illegible] the railing gate on the side [illegible] open [illegible] by a careless car [illegible]. Just then the [illegible] that was pulling us let out a whistle screech that would have waked the dead, and the air brakes went on with a jerk that [illegible] reckless the [illegible] on the Pioneer Short Line.

Mr. Norcross [illegible]. But it snapped the young women and the girl away from the railing so suddenly that the first one had to grab for handholds, and when she did that, of course, the muff went overboard.

At this a bunch of things happened all in an eye-wink. The train ground and [illegible] to a stop, the girl squealed "Oh, my muff!" and skipped down the steps [illegible] in the direction of the Pacific coast, the young woman [illegible] "Maisie Ann—come back here; you'll be left!" and then took her turn at disappearing by the same route, and on top of it all the boss [illegible] and sprang after both of them, leaving a string of large [illegible] comments on the foolishness of women as a sex trailing along behind him.

Right then it was my golden moment to play safe and sane. With two of them off and lost in the [illegible] night, somebody with [illegible] of sense ought to have stayed by to pull the emergency cord if the train should start. But of course I had to take a chance and pull the [illegible]. The stop was at a blind siding in the [illegible] mountain desert, and when I squinted up ahead and saw that the engine was taking water, it looked as if there were going to be plenty of time for a bit of promenade after the [illegible]. So I swung off and went to join the muff hunt.

Amongst them they had found the [illegible]. They were coming up the track, and the boss had [illegible] of the two by an arm and was telling them that they'd be [illegible] certainly [illegible] couldn't [illegible] fashionably narrow [illegible] still three or four [illegible] when the [illegible] up [illegible] old Pacific type [illegible] hisses and a snort.

"They're going!" [illegible] the boss [illegible] between his teeth, and without another word he grabbed the women folks [illegible] his arm [illegible] into a run.

It wasn't more [illegible] old Pacific [illegible] too very far [illegible] handicap the [illegible] and in less than half a minute the [illegible] the type had caught his stride and the red tail lights of the train [illegible] vanishing [illegible] points in the [illegible]. We [illegible]!

When the [illegible] the boss quit, [illegible] his two armfuls [illegible] enough [illegible].

"Well [illegible] best rusty thing [illegible]. Why [illegible]

Just as If They'd Been a Couple of Sacks of Meal

[illegible]

do," said the young woman. "Can't we walk somewhere to where there is a station or a town with people in it?"

I saw Mr. Norcross look down at her skirts and then at the girl's.

"You two couldn't walk very far or very fast in those things you are wearing," he grunted. "Besides, we are in one of the desert strips and it is probably miles to a night wire station in either direction."

We trailed off together up the track, two and two, the boss walking with the young woman. After we'd [illegible] a few of the crossties the girl said: "Is your name Jimmie Dodds?" And when I admitted it: "Mine is Maisie Ann. I'm Sheila's cousin on her mother's side. I think this is a great lark, don't you?"

"I can tell better after it's over," I said. "Maybe we'll have to stay here all night."

"I shouldn't mind," she came back airily. "I haven't been up all night since I was a little kiddie and our house burned down."

We reached the big water tank and the boss picked out one of the square footing timbers for a seat. It seemed as if he were finding it a good bit harder to get acquainted with his half of the combination than I was with mine, but after a little the young woman thawed out a bit and made him talk to help pass away the time. I took it—the little girl and I sat and listened. When the young woman finally got him started the boss told her all about himself; how he'd been [illegible] ever since he left college and a lot of things that I'd never even dreamed. It's curious how a pretty woman can make a man turn himself inside out that way, just for her [illegible].

FIFTY THOUSAND OFFICES TO BE FILLED IN YEAR

Salaries Aggregating Hundred Million Dollars in Gift of President.

POST OFFICES IN LEAD

By Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March [illegible].—Upwards of 50,000 appointments to public offices carrying salaries aggregating more than $100,000,000 a year are to be made by President Harding. Some of these were made today, many others will be announced during the next few months while still others will be made as the terms of present Democratic office holders expire.

The first fruits from the shaking of the official "plum" tree were cabinet officers whose salaries are $12,000 a year each. Others to come include nearly a dozen ambassadors whose salaries are $17,500 each, many ministers at $10,000 each, assistant secretaries, federal judges, attorneys and [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] the other and [illegible] [illegible] telegraph [illegible] a year [illegible] Vice President [illegible] $[illegible],000.
